

"By far the best representation of the occupation & Uprising" ---Harriet Rowan, capitol organizer

New Film about the Wisconsin Uprising: Divided We Fall

Barrymore Theater
Sunday, April 2nd, 11 a.m.
Tickets via Wisconsin Film Fest
<http://wifilmfest.org/2017>

*"America is about to be Wisconsinized."
--Paul Buhle, historian*

As details about President Trump's draconian budget emerge and activists gear up to resist Act 10 on steroids, the time is ripe for another look at the 2011 Wisconsin Uprising. The latest film about our historic protests, Divided We Fall, is the first to present a critical perspective on the movement that inspired workers around the world yet failed to achieve its most urgent objective – defeating Scott Walker's signature union busting and austerity legislation.

Divided We Fall traces the genesis of the historic capitol occupation and weeks-long protests from the perspective of graduate teaching assistants at the center of the action - and exposes the tensions that challenged the movement's solidarity. First-time filmmaker Katherine M Acosta says the reason she made the film was because, "The next time we get tens of thousands of people in the streets for weeks at a time, I want to win!" Activists preparing to challenge Trump's "America's 1% First" budget may have something to learn from the Wisconsin experience.

Come out to see Divided We Fall at the Barrymore on Sunday, April 2nd, 11 a.m. Relive the exhilaration and positive energy we generated campaigning together back in 2011. Take a sober look at our strengths and weaknesses. And return to organizing invigorated and ready to strategize victory this time.

Seeing Divided We Fall during the film fest is a special treat, as we have built a DCP (Digital Cinema Package) of our movie and the Wisconsin Film Fest brings in state of the art equipment capable of projecting the DCP.

Learn more about Divided We Fall and watch a trailer here: <https://dividedwefall-movie.com/>

Buy tickets for the screening here: <http://wifilmfest.org/2017/guide.htm#Event=16852>

Read the latest review here: <https://tinyurl.com/lzrcaj4>

Follow us on Facebook! <https://www.facebook.com/dividedwefallthemovie>